

Ageing Tips

Temperature: 12-15° C is a great temperature to store your wines. Most importantly, reduce frequent temperature fluctuations.

Storage: Bottles are best stored on their sides, thereby keeping the corks moist.

Humidity: A relative humidity of 50-70% will keep the corks in a supple condition and keep the air out.

Sulphite Level: If your wine is being aged for more than 6 months, add an extra ¼ tsp to 23l. of wine. This will ensure the safety of your wine.

Oak Barrel Ageing

Some wines are traditionally aged in oak and oak over the centuries has become an integral factor in the wine's character. AC offers barrel aging in single and community barrels at an additional cost. This service has proved itself for many of our regular clients.

Bulk Ageing

AC will bulk age your wines where appropriate as a regular service, at no extra cost, for up to six months. This allows you our client to mature your wine under ideal cellar conditions to properly finish the wine making procedure. This simple fact is so often ignored by many in our industry as they lack the facilities to properly finish your wine.
